Nipah has served Malaysian favourites for decades. We promise authentic Malaysian flavours featuring the best known dishes from around the country, so that your tastebuds can go where you have yet to visit!

SEAFOOD TOM YAM

Our tom yam is rich, spicy and piquant, made with a base of authentic Thai aromatics consisting of lemongrass, galangal, kaffir lime leaves, garlic and chillies. The balance of sweet and sour, tangy and spicy is what makes this soup such a favourite among guests.

“ Nipah was the toast of the town when it debuted as the all-day dining restaurant of Equatorial Hotel in 1974. In the decades that followed, Nipah became synonymous with the true taste of Malaysian food, served in the welcoming hospitality of one of Kuala Lumpur’s finest hotels. In present times Nipah continues to deliver the authentic flavours of some of Malaysia’s best-known foods, and continues its long tradition of offering one of the best buffet spreads in the capital, along with a hearty, familiar range of Western favourites. ”

NIPAH SATAY

Our satay has been one of Nipah's draws since it was first offered on the menu. These skewers of tender chicken and succulent beef are marinated in our signature blend of turmeric, garlic, shallots and lemongrass, with just a pinch of sugar to help the meats achieve a perfect char and caramelisation upon grilling.

“Nipah Signature dishes have been menu staples since the days of Nipah’s founding in Equatorial Hotel. These items are drawn from a list of customer favourites, and continue to be made the way our regulars remember – authentic Malay food from our own prized recipes which have been faithfully passed down through decades. These dishes bear the stamp of our brand history dating back to 1973, where many KLites could be heard saying, “Nothing beats the way it tastes at Nipah.” While years have passed, the mouthwatering flavours remained unchanged, drawing new diners into the appreciation of food history via the use of tried-and-true recipes, spot-on flavours, and a pinch of nostalgia.”

ASAM PEDAS TENGGIRI

Balance is the key to this dish: enough tomatoes to give it a tart and tangy base, and a perfect blend of spices to achieve a comfortable amount of heat which brings out the sweet freshness of the tender fish.

“Malaysian food is characterised by its richness of flavour, and a masterful blending of herbs, spices and aromatics. No matter the origin of the dish, local cuisine is known for its distinctive flavour profile, and the balance of elements in each dish. We have selected some of the best-known dishes from across the country’s 14 states for your enjoyment.”

WOK-FRIED CARROT CAKE

This deceptively simple hawker dish calls for a perfect ratio of different flours and freshly grated white Chinese radish to achieve a sheet of springy cubes which are then seasoned and fried so that the exterior crisps, leaving the interior warm and fluffy.

“Malaysian street food is known world-wide for its flavour, variety and satiability. Often prepared by hawkers who have spent a lifetime perfecting one particular dish, it is not rare to hear about hawkers being succeeded by their children, thus continuing the legacy of good food. Food hawkers are an intrinsic part of Malaysian culture, with stalls, food carts and now food trucks on suburban road shoulders, as well as busy thoroughfares like morning and night markets and hawker centres. The one thing that unites all hawkers of note is their consistency, use of fresh ingredients, and adherence to a tried and true recipe. At Nipah we strive to deliver an authentic version of some of Malaysia’s most popular hawker fare, so as to give our guests a sampling of the richness of flavours, textures and aromas that make the country’s food so popular.”

COCONUT PANDAN PANNA COTTA

A fusion dessert which uses the Italian technique of firming pandan leaf-infused coconut milk with gelatine for a sweet, satisfying end to any meal.

“ Malaysia's tropical climate has resulted in a vast array of chilled or iced desserts meant to refresh and cut through the heat. While fresh fruit is the most common after-meal staple - a result of the country's rich agrarian heritage - many local desserts also draw heavily on the versatile coconut for its rich cream and grated flesh. The inclusion of fresh coconut milk into Malaysian desserts give the sweet treats a distinctive creaminess and fragrance. This is further emphasised by the use of pandan as an aromatic. The coconut-pandan combination has resulted in some of the country's favourite desserts. Our talented chefs have continued this tradition in their creation of Western desserts utilising this delightful mix. ”

LATTE TARIK™

The trademarked Latte Tarik was invented in Hotel Equatorial in the late Nineties to offer a coffee equivalent of Malaysia's favourite hot tea beverage, teh tarik. Based on a double espresso selected for its aroma and intensity, the drink combines condensed and evaporated milks, and is frothed to bring out the espresso's crema. The result is a smooth, satisfying cup of perfectly balanced sweetness, with a luxuriant mouthfeel.
